

Liberty Lessons From Those Who Risked All To Sign The Declaration Of Independence

On July 4, 1776, 56 men risked their lives and fortunes to sign the Declaration of Independence. They were a diverse group of farmers, lawyers, merchants, and planters, but they were united by a common belief in liberty and self-government.

The signers of the Declaration of Independence knew that they were taking a great risk. If they were caught, they could be hanged for treason. But they were willing to risk everything for the cause of liberty.
