

Rueful Addiction: There Is No Censorship

Rueful Addiction is a website that publishes uncensored content. This includes articles, videos, and images that would be considered too controversial for mainstream media. The site was founded in 2016 by a group of journalists who believe that the public has a right to know the truth, even if it is uncomfortable.

Rueful Addiction has published a wide range of content, including:

- Articles on topics such as politics, religion, and race
- Videos of protests and demonstrations
- Images of war and violence

The site has been criticized by some for its lack of moderation. However, Rueful Addiction's founders argue that censorship is never justified. They believe that the public has a right to see all sides of an issue, even if it makes them uncomfortable.
